

Northern Border University

Sustainability

Student representation

Northern Border University (NBU) Student Advisory Council serves as a vital platform for student representation, ensuring that students actively contribute to the development of university policies and initiatives. This council works closely with the university administration to address student concerns, enhance academic and extracurricular experiences, and promote student engagement in institutional decision-making.

A key feature of the council's role is its regular meetings with the university president, where members discuss important issues affecting students, propose solutions, and collaborate on strategies to improve the overall university experience. These meetings provide a direct communication channel between students and university leadership, reinforcing NBU's commitment to transparency, inclusivity, and student empowerment.

The University President Chairs the University-Wide Student Advisory Council Meeting

Professor Dr. Ahmed bin Ali Al-Rumaih, President of Northern Border University, chaired the meeting of the University-Wide Student Advisory Council, attended by council members from both male and female students.

At the beginning of the meeting, the University President welcomed the council members. The Student Advisory Council then discussed the topics listed on the meeting agenda, as well as issues of interest that contribute to enhancing communication between the university administration and its students, and to the development of the educational, pedagogical, and service processes for students. The members reflected on the impact of the university administration's guidance—represented by the President and the Vice Presidency for Academic Affairs—in activating these roles.

At the conclusion of the meeting, His Excellency honored the student council members in recognition of their outstanding efforts during the council's term. He also thanked the students for their contributions as the current council's term comes to an end, wishing them success and prosperity in their future endeavors.

<https://www.nbu.edu.sa/en/node/6235>